

PERFECT WORLD

They have wars in the name of Gods

They name gods for the Wars

Loner on the rooftop

Tries to understand this universe

Above the city asleep

Stars wake up to remind:

Neil was walking on the Moon

Or on the sands of Nevada, whatever

Just another business

Fortunately none of mine

Chorus:

If I close my eyes from this world

If I just let the world pass me by

If I just quiet down for this piece of a melody

A feeble breeze lifts up a child's kite

The seed of a hurricane

Mother Nature is paying back for Human Natural Selection

Or playing tricks on us

Laughing how childish we all are

If I close my eyes from this world

Where I am nothing and I'm all I have

I guess the Earth will go around

With or without me

If I close my eyes from this world

If I just let the world pass me by

If I just quiet down for this piece of a melody

For the world twirling inside me

If I close my eyes from this world

If I just let all the world pass me by

What if I just quiet down for now
